Once upon a time
Most books start that way.
Ours doesn't,
Because our book is not make-believe.
Ours is real.
It is a story of actual people,
Living their everyday lives in a normal way,
Confusion,
Wondering how to study when the lights are dimmed
During an assembly,
"Why is my homeroom locked? It's 8:30 already."
Conglomeration of people at 213
Always,
Voting, voting, voting,
"Why is Barry Goldwater running for May Queen?"
Mass hysteria,
"Out of my way"
Tripping over books strewn in the halls before school,
SENIOR SLUMP—that's my problem!
Troubled with family responsibilities,
"Are you sure we have short periods today?"
"Where's Row Q, Seat 10?"
"How many more times is she going to say that?"
"Somebody tell me I'm seeing things,"
Strike!
Are you buying your lunch today?
"Why didn't I stay at home?"

Reaching into a desk and pulling out
A handful of candy wrappers,
Being driven to the point of exhaustion,
"I wish those people would move so I could see!"
"What will those boys think of next?"
"Let me think a minute,
It's right on the tip of my tongue."
The grind of chairs being pushed from desks,
"One of these days that guy's gonna' get caught!"
Long-anticipated Friday afternoons,
Demoralizing Monday mornings,
"Jayem, Jayem, best team in the land,"
"A fire drill?
During lunch?"
"Well, I'd better get my books together,
The bell will ring in ten minutes."
"There oughta' be a law,"
"Why does it always snow on Friday nights?"
"Sure hope she curves the grades!"
"Not again!"

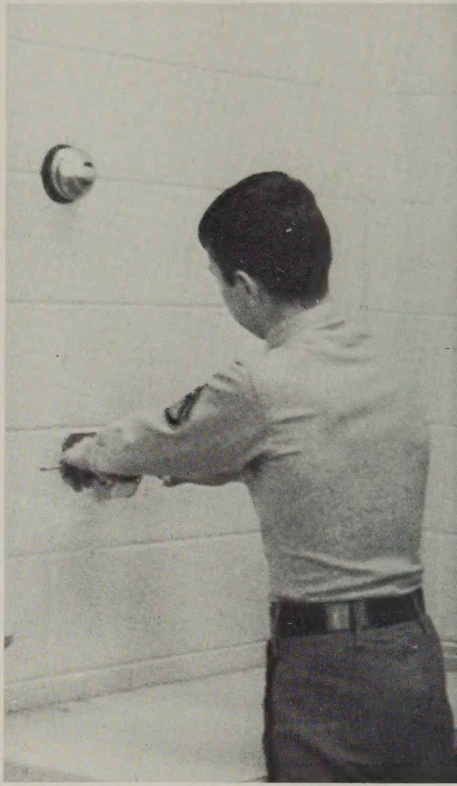
Good SUPPORT



An Abundance

of Eventful Activities Filled Students' School Lives

The security of an off bounds pass,
Last minute cramming,
Trudging up never ending flights of steps,
"How am I going to get from the cafeteria to math class
Without using the 'Faculty Only' door?"
"Quit shoving, I was here first!"
"All right, class, let's have only one person at a time at the pencil sharpener!"
"Your assignment for tomorrow is this and this.
Then write this and this and . . ."
"I'm sorry, you'll just have to copy it all over in ink and only on one side of the paper."
"What do you mean, am I really sick?"
"Of course I did it, I just can't find it!"
You can't win 'em all!
Do we really have to wait a month for reports?
Beatle haircuts,
"You aren't using a translation, are you?"
"I don't care if it was on the P.A. That doesn't mean I heard it!"
Buttercoated straw wrappers and forks on the ceiling,
"Dixie" at the Brotherhood Assembly,
Dear old John Marshall,
"The Guns of Navarone" and Johnny Mathis,
Monotony,
Pictures taken, retaken, retaken, retaken,
Peanut brittle,
"Filling station, it is!"
Thompson parties,
But why can't you tell us what color it is?
These normal lives can be divided into parts,
Something like the parts of a book.

Students Show Appreciation to Mr. Dan Marshall

Daniel Summey Marshall
B.S., U. of N. C.
Hi-Y, Sponsor

For Three Years of Loyal Service to Marshallites

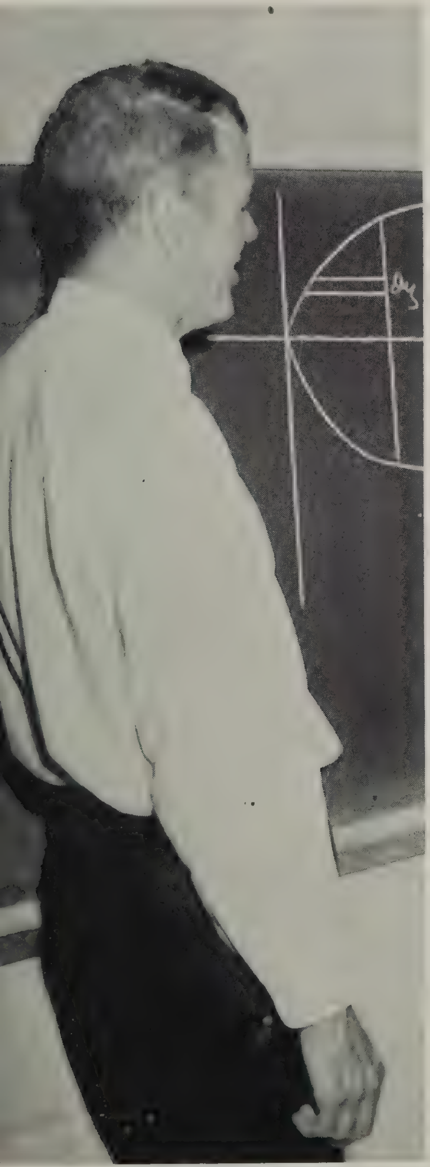
Sponsor Dan Marshall observes a Hi-Y meeting.

Showing outstanding Christian character and a wonderful sense of humor in all aspects of his life, Mr. Dan S. Marshall has gained the respect and affection of all students at John Marshall. His effective teaching techniques enabled countless numbers of students to enjoy themselves as they learned algebra, geometry, trigonometry, and calculus. Having served both as a counselor and as a full-time instructor, he has inspired all of us with his kind and unselfish spirit.

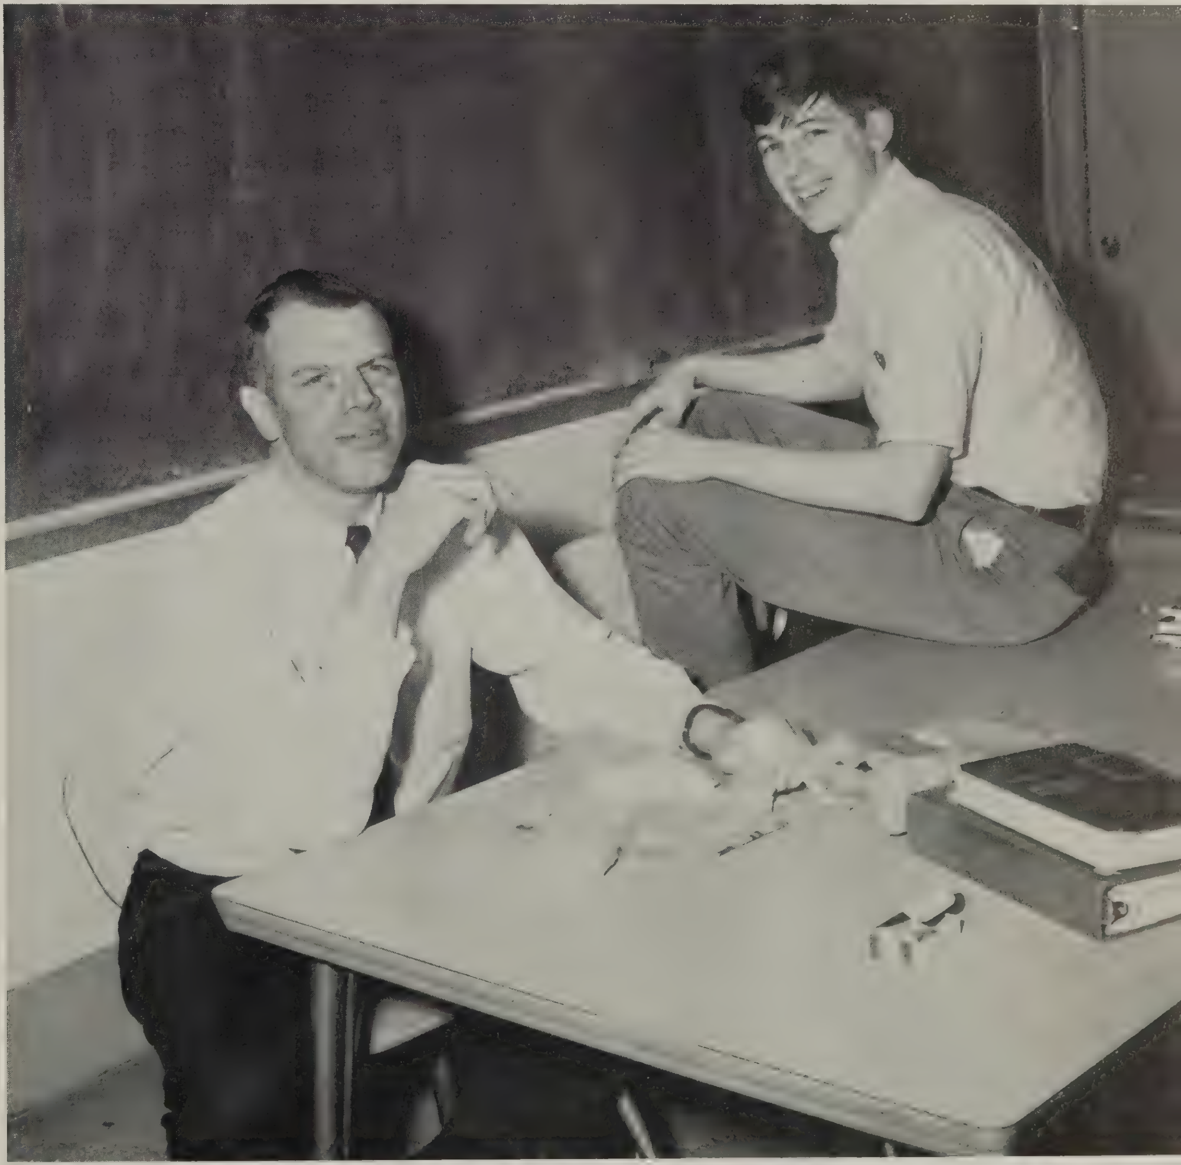
Mr. Marshall regularly attended pep rallies and games; he participated enthusiastically in numerous extra-curricular activities, including serving as sponsor of the Hi-Y.

With deep appreciation for his dedication to us, we, the students of John Marshall High School, dedicate the 1965 MARSHALLITE to Mr. Daniel Summey Marshall.

Mr. Marshall teaches.



Caught off guard, Mr. Marshall enjoys his lunch as he chats with Edward Sowell.



Dr. Fred B. Dixon
Ed.D., U. of Missouri
Principal

Dr. Dixon Participated in All Phases of Life at Jayem

For nineteen years Dr. Fred B. Dixon, our principal, has given John Marshall High School his best in every way, concerning himself with every phase of school life. Encouraging student participation in various activities, he shows his concern for each student to be a well-rounded person. Under his able administration, our school has progressed by applying new and modern methods of education.

Students approach Dr. Dixon in a willing manner, sure to receive understanding. To the students of John Marshall, he is a friend as well as a principal.

Mr. James Cook discusses history problems with Dr. Dixon.

Mrs. Oliver takes a memo from Dr. Dixon.

Mr. Parrish, Assistant Principal, Managed Financial Affairs

Mr. Oscar H. Parrish, assistant principal, was in charge of the financial affairs of the school and handled discipline problems of sophomores and juniors. He also worked closely with the Yearbook staff and advised them concerning their budget.

In addition, Mr. Parrish served as principal of the Evening School. Through the courses offered, it was possible for a student who lacked credits for graduation to earn his high school diploma. High school and college graduates also took courses for pleasure and profit.

Oscar H. Parrish
B.S., U. of Richmond
M.S., U. of Richmond
Assistant Principal

"Hold it, this will just take a second."

The Marshallite staff listens to Mr. Parrish as he goes over the plans for the year.

Reviewing plans of the Assembly Commission are Brian Wright, Miss Keene, and Walter Judd.

Thelma B. Keene
B.A., U. of Richmond
M.A., Duke U.
Assistant Principal

Assistant Principal Coordinated School's Schedule

As assistant principal, Miss Thelma B. Keene efficiently directed the organization of classes at John Marshall. In addition, she was responsible for organizing summer schools in Richmond for grades four through twelve. This program of educational offering made it possible for students to enrich and accelerate their curriculum or to repeat required subjects.

Miss Keene also served as the advisor for the Assembly Commission and handled discipline problems of the freshmen.

Miss Keene discusses departmental budgets with Miss Lambert and Mr. Harwood.

Students, As Authors, Lived What They Wrote

Ours is a book
Of the students,
For the students,
And most of all, by the students.
Each writes his own story
As he lives every day of his life at Jayem,
Pushing and shoving a path through the congested halls,
Fumbling for the right answer in class,
Writing and rewriting compositons,
Creating explosions in the chemistry lab,
Furiously working a trig problem all period only to find that it couldn't be solved.
Memorizing the events of 1947, 1492, 1948, 1965,
Conjugating French verbs and declining Latin nouns,
Panting and straining to keep up with the fast pace of the coaches,
Nervously racing the clock to pass timed writings.
Then there are other aspects of his life,
Attending a coach class and track practice at the same time,
Having a daydream interrupted by an unnecessary question,
Deciding whether to watch Peyton Place or to study for a Spanish exam,
Running up the street to Kelly's,
Remembering as the late bell rings that he has left his homework at home,
Losing the combination to his locker between classes,
Trying to carry on a conversation in the library without making a sound,
Dashing from one end of the school to the other in three minutes,
And learning that his term paper, science project, and government debate are all due on the same day.
His autobiography is not only written on the pages of this book, but is engraved forever on the memories of those who worked with him at J. M.

John Edward Ross Remembered by Senior Class

Although John Edward Ross lived only for a short while, he did more for others in those seventeen years than many people do in an entire lifetime. The memory of John will live long in the hearts of those students who knew him, since he was a loyal friend and the kind of person liked by everyone. His habit of speaking highly of others made everyone think very highly of him. Throughout his life, John gained the respect and admiration of all who knew him.

Contributions of Outstanding Teacher Remembered

Miss Elizabeth Virginia Collins June 24, 1897 - March 11, 1965

As he passes Room 210, each John Marshall senior will remember the teacher who once occupied that room, Miss Elizabeth Virginia Collins. He will remember the constant scratch of words on the rough copies of her many assigned compositions, the hushed atmosphere of her room, and the familiar ring of "Next" as she posed questions in class.

Respected by all her students, Miss Collins represented to generations of Marshallites the dignity, vivacity, and inspiration of two thousand years of English literature. She provided the type of guidance and instruction that can come only from one who possessed the deepest understanding and love of her subject.

All seniors who had the experience of knowing Miss Collins will take with them from John Marshall intangible values that will leave an imprint on their lives forever.

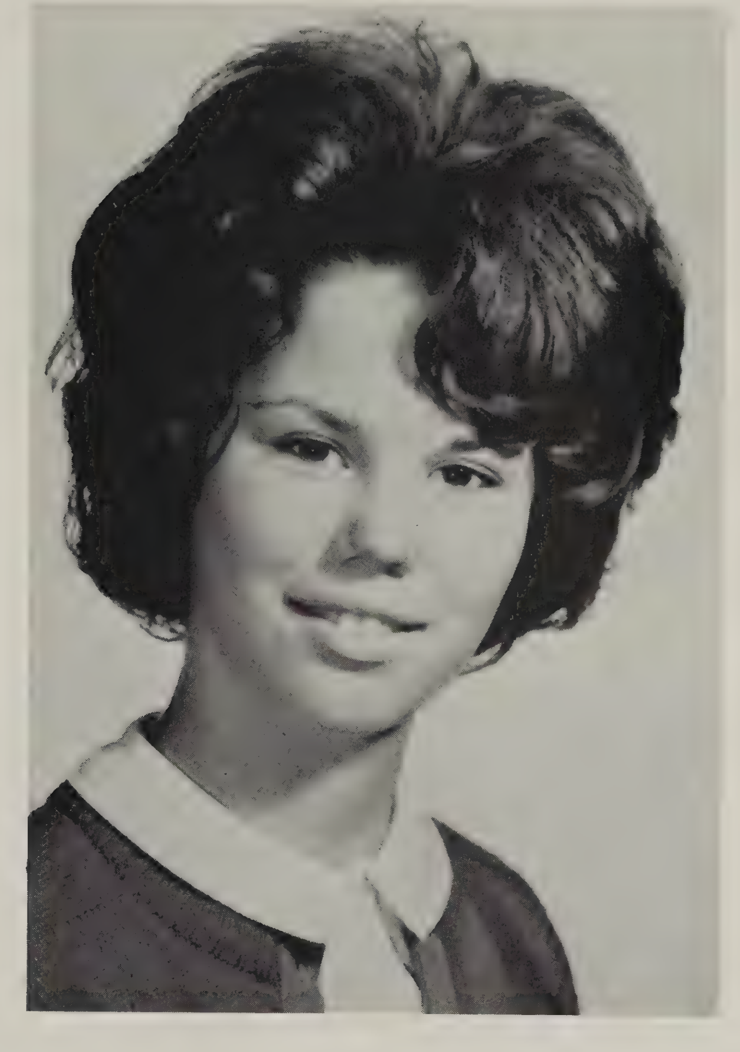
Juniors Offered Memoriam to Susan Harris



Participating in many functions at John Marshall High School, Susan Elizabeth Harris, member of the Class of 1966, played an active part in the Distributive Education program. Being a girl with an outgoing personality, Susan was well liked by all who knew her.

After coming to Jayem from J. R. Tucker, Susan, whose talents and outside activities included dancing, sewing, and art, was chosen a semi-finalist for the Thalhimer's Deb Council.

The Junior Class, along with teachers, and many other friends will surely long remember Sue as a sweet, charming, and attractive young girl.

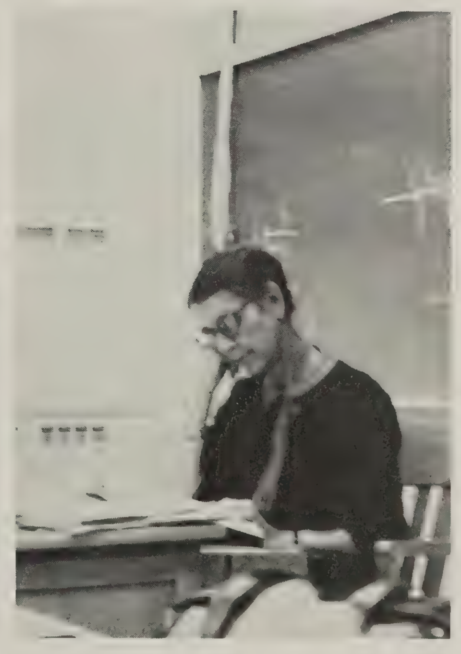
Faculty and Academics Set School Life Scene

Ours is a book
Whose setting is not merely a school.
It is set in many individual classrooms,
Each occupied by a special person,
Who has his own special purpose.
These special people are teachers.
They exist
Not only to relate knowledge they have gained through studying and reading textbooks,
But also to guide each student in their care,
Counseling him and directing him along the narrow path of life.
Their lives revolve around their students,
Grading endless numbers of test papers,
Preparing daily classroom assignments,
Coming early in the morning to struggle with IBM records,
Staying late into the afternoon to give make-up tests,
Coaching students,
Taking time from their busy schedules to sponsor extracurricular activities,
Attending faculty meetings on Thursday afternoons,
And trying to keep one step ahead of the students
The rooms that these teachers occupy reflect the diverse personalities of their occupants.
Some are cluttered with maps, books, and papers,
Others are perfection itself,
With neatness and order their symbols.
Though each room is dominated by a different personality,
The basic purpose of these personalities is identical.
They are all driven by the same desire
To guide,
To counsel,
To stimulate,
To influence,
To lead,
To teach.



In making plans for college, many students seek the advice of Mr. Cook, senior counselor.

Mr. Brockwell Joined the Counselors' Staff This Year

Guidance Services were an integral part of the school program and were especially designed to focus the entire educational process on the individual student. The counseling staff was organized to give continuous assistance to each student by helping him make the most of his abilities and correct or compensate for his limitations. Seniors kept their counselor especially busy, as he aided them in the selection of and application to a college.

Typing, filing, taking dictation, duplicating, answering telephones, writing letters, making out reports, and greeting visitors are a few of our secretaries duties. Besides these, each has other specific tasks to perform, such as working the IBM machine or being a personal secretary to Dr. Dixon or the assistant principals. Keeping the office orderly and representing John Marshall in a courteous and efficient manner is another responsibility that all secretaries are expected to uphold.

An office aide, Phyllis Young, distributes mail to the proper boxes.

X-Rays Were Given All Seniors

To help students develop physically, mentally, and emotionally was the aim of the Medical Department at John Marshall this past year. Athletes, juniors, and students who transferred to Jayem from other schools were given health examinations, while x-rays were taken of all seniors. If defects were found, the student was referred to his personal physician or to a clinic. Emergency care was given to any sick or injured student during the school day by the nurse, Mrs. Gordon.

Type-A Lunch Was Served to Students Each Day

Almeda G. Donald

By serving a hot or cold lunch each day, the cafeteria met the requirements of the State Department of Education and those of the Richmond School Board. Two-thirds of the students' nutritional requirements for one day were on each plate lunch. A la carte service was provided for the students who bought a tray lunch, but this service was limited because the students did not need more than what was offered to them. In the past year, emphasis was placed on the fact that the cafeteria was a place for good manners.

Brenda Skeleton and a cafeteria worker count the lunch money collected.

Record Library Brought Enjoyment and Education

Listening to records in the Esther Edwards Memorial Record Library are Jo Anne Parrish, Barbara Roukema, and Donna Thacker.

For faculty and student use, an outstanding collection of books and periodicals, chosen to supplement classroom instruction, to provide research material, and to further individual tastes in recreational reading, was available in the John Marshall library. Being circulated for home and school use were records from the Esther Edwards Memorial Record Library, a new addition to the school which proved valuable. Also available in the library was the Autotutor Mark III, a self-teaching machine accessible to students during their study halls.

Speech, Humanities, Business and Regular English

Variety was emphasized in the courses offered by the English Department this year. A junior could have taken journalism or Business English instead of conventional English and, in addition, could have elected either Speech or Humanities, courses also open to seniors. In standard English courses, the first two years emphasized the necessary skills of composition; the junior and senior years concentrated on the development of style.

Literature courses began with the study of literary works in the ninth grade, proceeded to a study of types in the tenth grade, and concluded with surveys of American and English literature in the latter years.

History Department Stressed Democratic Way of Life

To improve human relationships and to develop an understanding of the democratic way of life was the primary aim of the History Department. Each course shared the common theme of developing the understanding and abilities which aid in the solution of the increasing human problems on the local, state, national, and international scenes.

On the ninth grade level, a combined course in world history and geography was offered. The tenth grade course, twentieth century problems, was provided to aid students in comprehending their modern world. The backgrounds of the United States and of Virginia were taught in the eleventh grade. Complexities of modern economic organization demanded new emphases in the teaching of government, economics, and communism to students in their senior year.

Autotutor Mark III Aided Mathematics Department

Offering three separate courses, the Mathematics Department served all students at John Marshall.

Traditional mathematics offered two years of algebra, one year of geometry, plus a year of trigonometry and college algebra. Four years of basic mathematics were available to those who did not wish to take the traditional course. Consisting of modern math in the first year, practical and business math in the second and third years, and a fourth year devoted to setting up equations and stressing mathematical reading, basic mathematics offered to the student a well-rounded course.

By having had the use of the Auto-Tutor, a self-teaching machine by which students have learned the use of the slide rule, the Math Department increased its program to an even greater height.

Last year's math award had set a precedent in the department, for it has been decided that the math medal will be given each year to the senior making the highest grade on the math test.

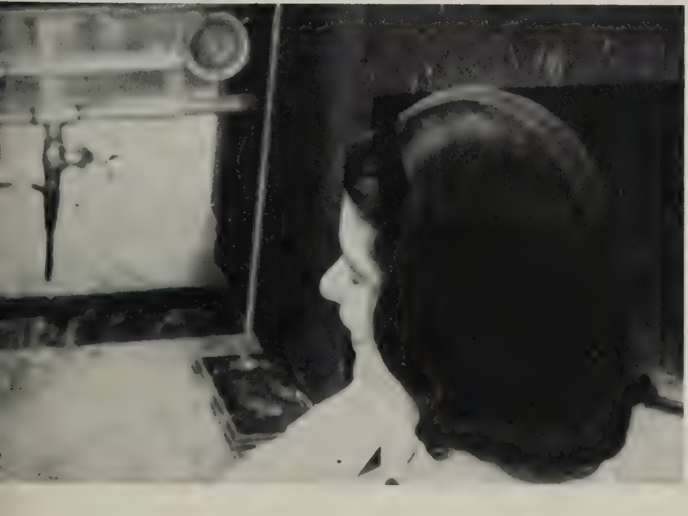
With Mrs. Jones's assistance, Betty Jo Shoemaker sets up an experiment in her advanced chemistry class.

Lee Hamilton works to balance the scales in the science display case.



Action and activity filled the science wing of John Marshall as ninth graders took a one-semester class in both chemistry and astronomy-earth science, tenth graders took a year course in biology, and eleventh and twelfth year students studied chemistry or physics. Certain students on the Advanced Placement program started biology in the ninth grade, continuing with chemistry, physics and a college-level chemistry course during their four years.

In the biology and chemistry courses, some of the work is conventional and some has a new approach. Students in the BSCS course, still on an experimental basis, were tested against those in the conventional group at the end of each session to permit an evaluation of the new course. Chemistry students are in a newly developed chemistry study group while physics students have PSSC. These new courses in the sciences place greater emphasis on laboratory work. Experiments consist of setting up equipment plus taking and analyzing data, and the interpretations that follow frequently consume more time than the actual experiments. These classes present a challenge to the students, who learn to develop their own conclusions.

Four New Teachers Added to Language Department

Besides French and Spanish, two of the romance languages, Latin, German, and Russian were offered this year. Fluency in speaking, proficiency in grammar and composition, and an understanding of the homeland and the customs and culture of its people were stressed.

At least two years of a language must be taken for a student to receive credit. Selected classes began language in the seventh grade.

To provide a longer sequence of study, fifth year Latin was offered, providing work on the college level for advanced students.

John Marshall's well-equipped language laboratory, containing both tapes and records, had thirty-six booths to accommodate students seeking an opportunity to improve their pronunciation and oral comprehension.

To promote interest in activities outside the classroom, students participated in the club organized for their language. Some of these clubs met after school and others met during the actual classroom period.

Advanced Art Students Chosen for Special Work

Beginning art students took a survey course to give them an insight into the field of art, so that they could choose the area best suited to their own personality. During their second year, students were given the opportunity to choose between oil painting, jewelry, crafts, and ceramics.

For the advanced student, independent research was available. Some of the advanced pupils were selected to do art work for the MARSHALLITE, the MONOCLE, display cases, sporting events, proms, and other school activities. A few exceptionally talented artists had their work accepted by the Valentine Museum.

Major Project of Music Department Was Operetta

John Marshall's Music Department is composed of a girls' chorus, a choir, an orchestra, and a cadet band. Members of each group were experienced musicians, eager to study their particular phase of music.

The girls' chorus was composed of ninth grade and first year vocal students. In addition to participating in assemblies with the chorus, the orchestra and choir jointly presented the operetta Ruddigore. The cadet band also contributed to school spirit by playing at pep rallies and football games.

The Business Department Set High Standards for Students

At John Marshall High School, the Business Department attempted to train students for office employment immediately upon graduation. Besides the three main divisions of secretarial, bookkeeping, and clerical work, the department also offered courses which prepared students for college or every-day living. Stenographic students learned typing, shorthand, and filing, while keeping budgets and accounts were taught in the bookkeeping classes. Typewriting and General Business were recommended for every student in school, and the clerical practice room, equipped with up-to-date machines that are used in most offices today, gave Marshallites many advantages.

Coordinators Placed Students in Down-Town Jobs

Distributive Education, Vocational Office Training, and Industrial Cooperative Training, which are part of the cooperative training programs, taught job skills, human relations, and economic understanding. Students, during their junior and senior years, had an opportunity to be placed in jobs preparing them for entrance into the business world. There they received supervised training coordinated by the school. A large faculty of down-town teachers cooperated in giving industrial, retailing, and office training. Next year cooperative training programs will be offered on the sophomore level.

First-Hand Knowledge Acquired in Industrial Arts

John Marshall's Industrial Arts program provided an opportunity for students to acquire first hand knowledge through the practical application of tools, machines, processes, materials, and products incident to industry. This course involved experimentation with materials and processes, invention of mechanical devices and ideas, investigations of facts and techniques, and similar activities stimulating to youthful interest and curiosity. Students were given a basic education in woodworking, metalworking, electricity, mechanics, and drafting.

Future Homemakers Club Was Organized This Year at Jayem

To help individuals improve personal, family, and community living, a Home Economics class was available to students on all grade levels.

There developed a need for a Future Homemakers of America Club to supplement this regularly offered course. The main purpose of the newly-formed FHA, a natural outgrowth of the Home Economics program, was to work toward well-organized and productive student activities.

Mrs. Anderson Held Class for Partially-Seeing Students

Each day during the second and third periods, John Marshall students with severe visual difficulties received aid in the form of recorded textbooks and supplementary materials, which included books with very large print, a magnifier, enlarged maps, etc. This aid, given in the class for the partially-seeing, also included a bulletin-print typewriter which made homework assignments, tests, or exams more easily readable. Instruction was provided by Mrs. Margaret Anderson.

Physical Education Classes Offered Variety of Sports

Promotion of good sportsmanship and the growth and development of students was the aim of the physical education program. Required in the freshman and sophomore years, physical education offered not only daily calisthenics but also seasonal sports such as hockey, football, basketball, volleyball, baseball, and track. Work on the parallel bars, horse, horizontal bars, and trampoline in the auxiliary gym, was supplemented by classroom instruction to improve the students' knowledge and physical ability. Because of a changeover in curriculum, freshman girls took first aid while sophomore girls took driver education; driver education was also offered to ninth grade boys.

Self-Improvement Was Goal of '65 Corps of Cadets

Organized in 1915 under the National Defense Cadet Corps Act, the John Marshall Corps of Cadets fostered punctuality, order, discipline, and respect for authority while maintaining high standards of honor, personal appearance, and self-respect.

To live by the motto of the Corps—Duty, Honor, Country—was the goal of every hard-working cadet this year. A four-year course of study in leadership, drill, marksmanship, and first aid was offered to each cadet to instill those qualities which help to produce outstanding citizens and leaders. Under the guidance of Miss McClintic, Colonel McLain, and Major Cartwright, a successful year was experienced.

Organizations Supplied Interests for Our Characters

Ours is a book
Of people.
Each person has his own interests,
And these interests are reflected in the types of organizations there are.
Some stem from classroom activities,
Some are just for the fun of it,
Some are honorary societies to which few are elected,
Some have open memberships.
There is a club for everyone,
No matter what his interests may be.
Our clubs have leaders,
With special duties,
And special responsibilities.
Our clubs have followers,
With special tasks,
And special purposes.
Each is dependent on the other,
Neither is more important.
Many must follow,
Few must lead.
Organizing,
Planning activities,
Service projects,
Sponsoring bake sales, dances, and car washes to obtain money,
Co-ordinated participation,
Of followers and leaders.
Through these organizations,
Their members,
The characters of our book,
Are brought to life.
They are portrayed as they converse,
As they act,
As they co-operate,
As they lead,
And as they follow.

SCA Leadership Workshop Promoted Parliamentary

Made up of the entire student body, the Student Co-operative Association, led by the officers and the Executive Committee, sponsored many varied projects this year. The leadership workshop project, consisting of discussion group on parliamentary procedure, public relations, and the responsibilities of a leader, proved to be worthwhile and possibly may become an annual affair. Other projects included collecting Thanksgiving baskets, which were donated to a hospital; citizenship week, which was held in March previous to the SCA elections; research on honor study halls; and a money-raising project for next year's AFS student.

Programs at the club meetings, which were held on the second Monday of each month, were especially interesting, as they were presented by the members themselves. At one meeting, Vice-President Lee McAllister showed slides and spoke about her trip to Europe.

The principal activities of the club were a Christmas party, which was held jointly with the German Club, and a float in the Homecoming parade. In the spring Sans Souci members participated in a language picnic.

Although the Deutscher Klub was not very large, it proved to be quite active throughout the year. Participating in the JM-TJ parade, performing a take-off on "Little Red Riding Hood" in the Talent Show, and contributing to the AFS fund kept the club busy. Food donations to the indigent, a bake sale, and a Christmas party also added to the agendas.

One of the club's most enjoyable programs was an evening at a German restaurant where the members ordered German food and made plans for future meetings.

Lively Latin Club Banquet Highlighted Eventful Year

Meeting one Monday a month, the Cicero and Vergil Latin Clubs enjoyed programs concerning Roman civilization. Their interesting guest speakers included Mr. Ullman from R.P.I., Doctor Constantine of the University of Virginia, and Doctor Ward of Grace Covenant Presbyterian Church.

The festive Latin Banquet held in October included an offering to the gods, a meal served by slaves, and skits by members. In December carolling was followed by a Christmas program and celebration.

In addition to the fun was the intense competition of the scholastic race to determine who would participate in the Latin Tournament.

Foremost in the minds of Don Juan Club members was the club motto, "Adelante Siempre Adelante." Among club projects this year was sponsoring a lunch table at which members were required to speak Spanish. The club also participated in the Talent Show in a Spanish version of "Little Red Riding Hood" and in the Homecoming parade.

High points of the club's programs were the appearances of a Cuban refugee and a Brazilian ministerial student, each of whom spoke about his country. AFS student Regina Barreto gave Don Juan Club members a vivid picture of Brazilian customs.

Trent Costley Was Sweetheart of 1965 Hi-Y Club

Jointly sponsored by John Marshall and the YMCA, the Hi-Y, a voluntary service organization, was composed of thirty-five boys interested in the international Hi-Y movement.

During the past year the club distributed "Freedom's Code" pamphlets in the homerooms. Also, it sponsored a car wash, held a mint sale, jointly presented a dance with TAB members, and traditionally sponsored Religious Emphasis Week. Members participated in the Richmond Hi-Y Basketball League. In addition the Hi-Y was represented at the Model General Assembly, the annual leadership congress, and other local conventions.

Key Club 1965 Led by Pete Brown, David Ward

In keeping with its tradition, the thirty-six member Key Club, which is sponsored by the Richmond Kiwanis Club, served John Marshall faithfully this year.

Among its school-spirited projects were a pep rally skit, the Key Club cheerleaders, and the football victory dance. Besides other activities, including a Key Club-Hi-Y basketball game, Library Week, and church attendance one Sunday a month, the club also sent two delegates to the International Convention in Dallas, Texas, last summer.

To raise money for its activities, its members held a paper drive, a fund-raising dance, and a doughnut sale.

The Key Club met each Tuesday, alternating between afternoon business meetings and evening dinner meetings.

TABS Adopted Boys and Co-Sponsored Dance

An organization composed of girls outstanding in loyalty, school spirit, and sportsmanship, the Torch and Banner Club met twice a month on school nights. Mrs. Overbey and Mrs. Young served as faculty sponsors and Bill Nelson was elected sweetheart.

One outstanding project of the club was the adoption of twelve boys, aged eight through twelve, from the Richmond Boys' Home. TABS also distributed a booklet of cheers to the student body at the beginning of the year, participated in the parade at the JM-TJ football game, collected baskets of food for the needy at Thanksgiving, and went carolling during the Christmas holidays. In addition, the club had a skit in the Talent Show and held a dance in conjunction with the Hi-Y.

Mrs. Quirk Sponsored National Honor Society in '65

Since 1939 when the John Marshall Chapter of the National Honor Society received its charter, it has initiated 1,083 members.

Its chief purpose was to provide a means through which a school could give recognition to outstanding students.

To be eligible for membership in the J. M. Chapter, a student must be a senior and have at least a "B" average. In addition, the student must be recommended by the school faculty for outstanding qualities of leadership, service and character.

NHS membership is one of the greatest honors that a student can achieve at John Marshall.

Quill and Scroll Ceremonies Began New Tradition

"Ye shall know the truth and the truth shall make you free," states the Quill and Scroll motto. Staff members of the MONOCLE and MARSHALLITE who had done superior work on their respective publications were chosen for membership in this international society at the candlelight ceremonies. These ceremonies consisted of having each member light a candle from the candle of truth.

In order to become a member, a student must be either a junior or a senior with at least a year's experience on a school publication; he must also have a "B" average and his sponsor's recommendation.

Marshallite Staff Made

Frantically working to meet each deadline, the MARSHALLITE staff, led on to the zenith of high school journalism by its dynamic editor, approached its job with vigor and originality. Toiling steadily throughout the year, each member of the staff was given responsibilities in both the business and the literary aspects of the book. Hard work on each

In addition to their diligent attention to duty, the staff welcomed two new advisers, Miss Pinson and Mrs. Adams, and enjoyed themselves at parties after each deadline.

Irving Felderstein Matchless as the '65 Monocle Mascot

Putting out fourteen issues of the newspaper during the year was the duty of the Monocle staff, which was made up of approximately forty seniors chosen from a journalism class.

Writing copy, cutting up galleys, and pasting dummy sheets together were just part of the process of publishing a newspaper; these activities were carried out under the supervision of the sponsor, Mrs. Newell.

The mascot of the paper, a large stuffed rabbit named Irving Felderstein, contributed greatly to the publication of the paper. He also assisted the junior journalism class, the Cub Staff, in putting out two issues of the Monocle during the spring semester.

Practice Provided by Chess Club Improved Techniques

Increased interest and enlarged membership in the Chess Club made this a successful year for them. The club welcomed all who played chess and taught new members who desired instruction. Players who were already familiar with the game sharpened their skills by practicing against fellow members.

As done in the past, matches were held with other schools. The club held meetings twice a month in which members either played for fun or competed in rated games.

Young Americans' Club Sponsored Mock Election

Unique as an organization, the Young Americans Club strived to make students cognizant of the responsibilities of today's citizens. The club's activities included a trip to Washington, D.C., where members viewed the workings of their government firsthand by visiting the Supreme Court while it was in session, the Senate, and other governmental agencies. A tour of the State Department was also included in their schedule of events in Washington. There they examined the majestic furnishings of the eighth floor as well as the modern International Conference Room.

Another group activity was a float in the JM-TJ parade. This float consisted of a truck resembling a covered wagon bedecked with old sheets and chased by several Indians.

The year's most important project was sponsoring a mock presidential election in which nearly three-fourths of the student body participated.

Also, many speakers, including J. Vaughn Gary, who spoke on "Reapportionment and How It Will Affect Virginia," and Mayor Crowe, addressed the club.

International Relations Club Aided Understanding

Although most members of the International Relations Club were foreign-born students, those who had lived or traveled abroad, or representatives of school language clubs, other interested students were welcomed.

At monthly meetings members attempted to achieve these aims: first, to create a better understanding of other countries and their people's viewpoints; second, to develop an interest in world problems and co-operation among nations; and third, to help members keep informed about national and international issues.

Field Trips Enriched Events of Science Club's Year

Experiencing a successful and interesting year, the John Marshall Science Club met twice a month as its members continued to pursue the club's aim of increasing scientific knowledge. Working on projects to present at the Virginia Junior Academy of Science Convention in May, enjoying several guest speakers during the year, and going on excursions to the Albemarle Paper Company and the Confederate Museum comprised the agendas of a few of their meetings.

Since the Science Club first began four years ago, a steady increase in membership has evolved due to an added amount of interest.

FBLA Fostered Interest in Free Enterprise System

To foster character, citizenship, and patriotism in business students, the Future Business Leaders of America was established. This year John Marshall members did clerical work for the Cadet Alumni Association, the PTA, the faculty, and the office.

At FBLA meetings, representatives from the business world explained office machines and procedures. Also, certain members participated in competitive contests at the regional convention in Fredericksburg; state, in Norfolk; and national, in Washington, D. C.

VOT Program Readied Students for Business World

"Earning while learning" was the motto of John Marshall's Vocational Office Training class. The VOT students attended school in the morning and worked each afternoon in a business office. While affording students with actual work experience, VOT helped them prepare for a career and taught them the correct use of business machines. Opportunities for full-time employment upon graduation made VOT highly advantageous to the members.

"Isn't that bus ever coming?" ask VOT members going to work.

DE Course Offered Classroom, On-the-Job Training

In achieving its goals of vocational understanding, civic consciousness, and leadership development, the Distributive Education program provided specialized training for persons entering into or already employed in retail, wholesale, and service occupations. In high school the training involved a combination of classroom instruction and actual supervised work experience in the various distributive occupations.

This year the DE Club's activities included an employer-employee banquet, entries in district contests, a new-member picnic, a school-wide Toys for Tots drive, participance in state leadership conferences, field trips, and many guest speakers.

Industrial Cooperative Training is an undertaking in which high schools and local businesses and industries work together in providing vocational training in the occupation of the student's choice.

Among the jobs held this year by the students were telephone operator, nurse's aid, dental assistant, and draftsman.

Club activities for the '64-'65 year included sponsoring the district convention, participating in the state convention, entering a car in the homecoming parade, giving an employee-employer steak fry, and inviting the employers to a banquet.

Red Cross "Teenaiders" Served in Richmond Hospitals

Having opened its activities this year with its annual enrollment campaign, the Junior Red Cross spent part of the money collected in the drive to fill gift boxes, which were sent to the needy children in foreign lands. Activities of certain numbers of the group included serving in the local hospitals as "teenaiders." Another dedicated service performed by its members was visiting nursing homes and adopting "grandparents" to whom the students sent cards and gifts. Thus, the Junior Red Cross motto "We Serve" was wholeheartedly upheld by its members for the 1964-65 year.

During the year, the Girl's Athletic Association held various intramural activities while also sponsoring varsity teams in hockey, basketball, and tennis.

At one meeting, their guests were the University of Virginia Gymnastic Club members, who held a demonstration clinic. The annual Christmas party and the picnic in May were, as always, enjoyed by all.

Projects for the year included presenting the Talent Show and selling book covers, sweat shirts, folders, and parkas. These projects had the dual purpose of raising money and boosting school spirit.

Girls' Chorus Assisted Choir During Successful Year

Thirty first-year voice students, the majority of whom were freshmen, composed the Girls' Chorus this past year.

During the year, the Chorus, which served as a training organization for the choir, performed in many varied activities such as the Easter concert, the baccalaureate service. Chorus members also seved as ushers for the operetta, which was performed by the choir.

Officers, who were elected at the beginning of the year, had the duty of reporting all absences and assisting the director in other ways.

The Marshallettes, a small ensemble selected from the total membership, sang at the Easter concert.

Students Enjoyed Choir's Performances

This season the John Marshall Choir attained an all-time high membership of seventy-five students, selected on the basis of voice quality, musicianship, and dependability.

The Choir, represented at each assembly by the Ritual Quartet and the Choir Accompanist, appeared as a group at the Thanksgiving and Christmas assemblies, an Easter concert, the commencement exercises, and a concert at the Highland Park Methodist Church.

As one of their principal functions, the choir officers assisted the director in casting the operetta Ruddigore, which was presented in co-operation with the orchestra and the Art Department. Two performances of this operetta were given in the evening, as well as a matinee for elementary school children.

Orchestra Members Played in RUDDIGORE and MESSIAH

Consisting of forty-four members, the John Marshall Orchestra presented a varied and interesting assembly program January 26 to the students and faculty.

Key students from the orchestra joined the George Wythe and Thomas Jefferson High School orchestras, choruses, and soloists in a performance of The Messiah on December 13. Fifteen students represented John Marshall in the Virginia State String Orchestra on November 6, 7, and 8 in Portsmouth, Virginia. Three wind players from the orchestra attended the All State Band.

Ending its year of musical achievements, the orchestra joined the Vocal and Art departments in presenting the operetta, Ruddigore.

PTA Stressed Better Understanding, Co-operation

"Growing in Richmond" was the theme for the John Marshall Parent-Teacher Association this year. A continuing effort was made to establish a relationship between parents, teachers, and students whereby each group was strengthened in its growth through better communications, understanding and cooperation.

A Survey of Selective Community Resources to identify patrons with special talents and professional experiences was one of the year's projects. The survey provided the faculty, special classes, and clubs with information which could be utilized to enrich their programs.

Athletic Club Gave School a Fiberglass Backboard

"Programs, get your programs!" was the familiar yell of the John Marshall Athletic Association members before each meeting. The club undertook as a project a banquet honoring football players and cheerleaders, which was held on November 25. At the opening of basketball season, it presented the school with fiberglass backboards for the gym. In March, a Winter Sports Banquet showed gratitude to basketball and wrestling participants; in the spring the club, in co-operation with the school, held a Sports Rally where they gave awards to members of the track and tennis teams.

First Commandant, General Edwin Conquest, Honored

Led by President R. L. Thurman, the Cadet Alumni Association planned a Fiftieth Anniversary fund-raising project for the Corps during the year. The alumni hoped to finance a revision of the Customs and Regulations Manual, replace the Corps Colors, and give two scholarships of $500 each.

At Veterans' Day ceremonies held in the gymnasium, Brigadier-General Edwin P. Conquest, the first commandant of the John Marshall Corps, delivered an address on the Corps' mission throughout fifty years.

Following the convocation Brigadier-General James C. Anthony, representing the Richmond Corps of Cadets Association, presented a book containing the pictures and achievements of many former cadets to General Conquest.

Led by Commandant Edwin Conquest, the 1915 Corps of Cadets consisted of six rifle companies and a Drum and Bugle Corps.

JMHS Corps of Cadets Commemorated Fifty Years

Cadets today, as in 1915, practice discipline, self-control, and citizenship.

Highlighted by the Corps' triple win at Alexandria, the celebration of the golden anniversary of the Corps of Cadets was a resounding success. The John Marshall Cadet Alumni Association, which worked unselfishly and untiringly to raise money for the reprinting of the Corps manual, a new Corps flag, and several other worthwhile projects, aided the members of the Corps in their celebration.

Through its Fiftieth Anniversary Convocation and gala hop, the Corps of Cadets did its part to make the year 1964-65 a memorable one. The fiftieth anniversary spirit seemed to ignite each member with a feeling of purpose, dedication, and renewed enthusiasm. This rejuvenation resulted in a prize-winning show of military know-how at Alexandria, Virginia, on February 22, 1965. The Corps of Cadets, through its anniversary activities, strived not only to emphasize the successes of past years but also to exemplify its hopeful expectations for coming years.

High fashion and stylish hairdos characterized the Final Ball, closing the Corps' first year.

Smith.

To instill in each cadet a sense of honor, thus developing a feeling of self-respect and pride, was the primary purpose of the Honor Court. The Cadet Honor System, a worthy tradition stemming from the Corps' motto, inspired and encouraged each cadet to live up to its rigid standards. The Court, consisting of the first captain, adjutant, company commanders, and those cadets chosen unanimously by the Court, assured cadets of proper instruction in the meaning of honor.

In order to inculcate in recruits a sense of discipline, duty, and respect, many recruit regulations evolved. Recruits who failed to live up to standards set forth in these regulations were referred to Recruit Court for corrective action. This Court was composed of the officers of the Second Class and the two ranking second classmen from each company.

As its primary function, the General Committee maintained high ideals in the Corps by proper instruction of each recruit and by reprimanding those cadets failing to uphold its regulations. This goal was obtained through the Committee officers, the president, vice-president, secretary of the first, second, and third classes of the Corps, and other cadets chosen by the Committee.

As a member of the Recruit Court, Color Sergeant Harry Johnson changes guards in front of cadet headquarters.

Traditional Figure Presented by the Hop Committee

Made up of cadets of every rank chosen from each company, the Hop Committee combined its efforts to add to a successful year. This committee's primary purpose was to perform one service for the Corps during the school year—to make the necessary preparations for the Cadet Christmas Ball. This job included taking care of lighting, decorations, invitations, bandstand, and even the thankless job of cleaning up.

Rifle Team Cadets Developed Skill in Marksmanship

By defeating its arch rival George Wythe and crushing Colonial Heights, the John Marshall Cadet Rifle Team experienced a very successful year. Under the wise leadership of Coach Aubrey Fones, the rifle team fired against three high school and two college freshman teams. The competitive spirit of the cadet marksmen was not dampened by the fact that they were often shooting against college freshmen. With its morale boosting victories, the rifle team proved once again its great value to the Corps of Cadets and to John Marshall High School.

John Philbrick, John Marshall's AFS student to France, shows Regina his summer home.

AFS Student Fascinated by Football Games and Snow

Whether speaking at an assembly or helping friends decorate a Christmas tree, Regina Baretto, AFS student from Brazil, endeared herself to every Marshallite. Her sense of humor was excelled only by her warm understanding.

Gina's year in America was highlighted by many new experiences, such as football games and the sight of snow. The Torch and Banner Club, choir, and SCA were proud to add her name to their rolls; many organizations were delighted to have her as a guest speaker.

If Gina's visit has meant as much to her as it has to us, the purpose of AFS has been accomplished.

Score a Football Victory

By filling the gym with cheers and screams, boisterous Marshallites showed their spirit as the beginning of Jayem's homecoming weekend exploded at Friday night's pep rally.

Saturday morning, industrious students and teachers decorated cars and floats for the half-time parade, which was highlighted by the Miss Justice float. This float stopped in front of the stands as last year's queen, Nancy Long, crowned Miss Justice, 1965—Donna Dolan.

To conclude the activities, the Key Club sponsored a victory dance, where Gene Hare was awarded the most popular player trophy by club sweetheart, Judy Sylvia.

Produced a Great Show

"Come alive! You're in the Paris generation!" were the introductory remarks made by M. C. Bobby Lohmeyer as he set the mood for this year's talent show, Paris à Nuit. Beginning with a French street scene, performances ranged from Little Red Riding Hood to a lively can-can.

Dancers, vocalists, and instrumentalists led the spellbound audience and family of American tourists on an exciting tour of Paris, complete with street singers and portrait painters. Even teachers joined in the fun as Mrs. Fontaine, a typical French schoolteacher, skipped merrily across the stage singing the alphabet.

Director Ginny Minasian, with the co-operation of the stage crew, ushers, and advisors, pooled the talents of the students into an evening of sparkling entertainment.

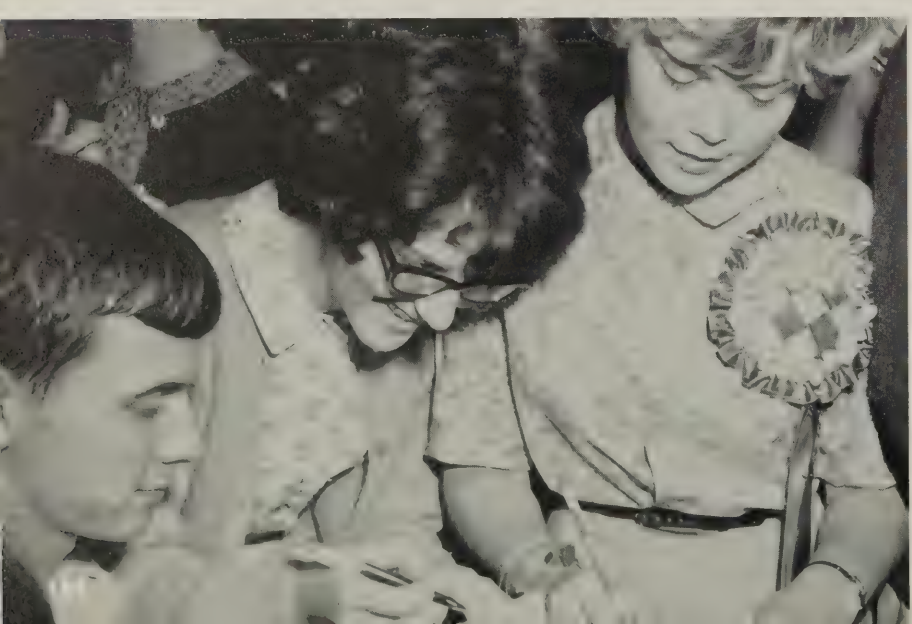
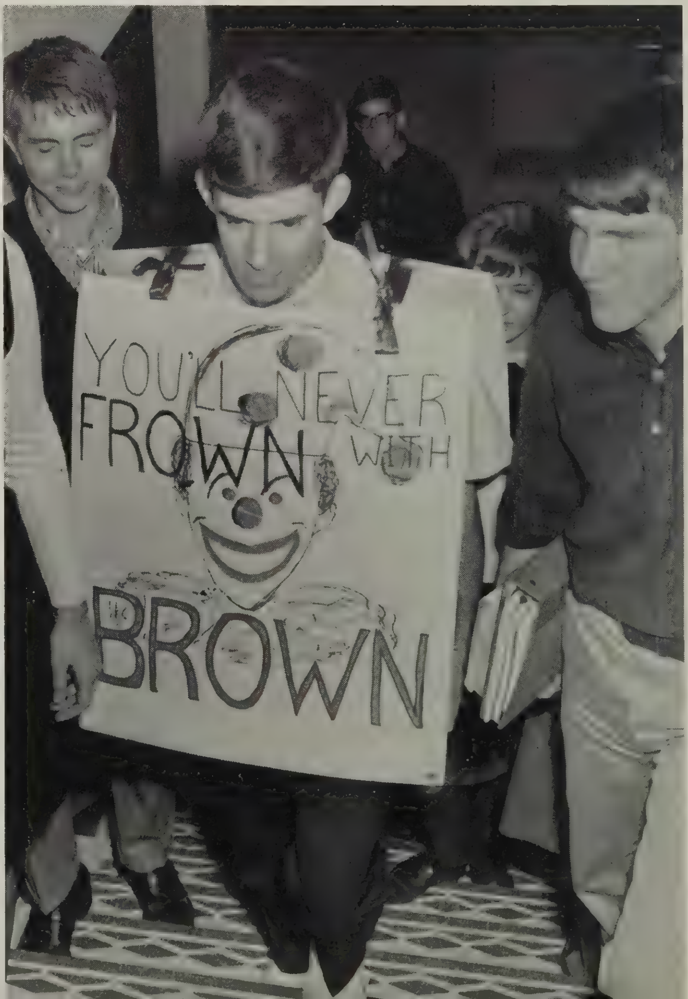
Elections Prepared Marshallites to Face Future Responsibilities

In addition to the usual SCA elections this year, a mock election by the Young Americans' Club in co-operation with the SCA was held. As in previous years, the student body participated in elections for SCA offices, class offices, and lunchroom positions.

Betty Knight and Ann Leonard cast their ballots in the mock election.



Campaigning in the junior class elections, Robert Norfleet carries his candidate's slogan to class with him.



Entering the auditorium singing "Adeste Fidelis," the choir set the mood for the Christmas assembly.

Wide Range of Assemblies Viewed by Student Body

Encompassing every aspect of student life, this year's assemblies were both entertaining and informative. In addition to the traditional holiday programs, a Veterans' Day ceremony honoring former Marshallites who were killed in battle was presented.

To make the students more aware of the similarities and the differences between the United States and other countries, two international programs were held.

Other assemblies ranged from campaign speeches to orchestra and choir concerts.

Camelot's Magic Enchanted Upperclassmen at Sr.-Jr.

Smiling and happy, Irvin Hutcherson and Kathy Costley enjoy their reign as King and Queen of the Prom.

By way of a drawbridge, fair damsels and gallant knights crossed a moat and entered the magic land of Camelot for an evening of fun at the annual Senior-Junior Prom. Shields, a painted stone wall, and pennants gave the gym an air of medieval enchantment.

The Igniters filled the gym with loud and lively music as couples danced the night away. Not many stopped to rest, but all enjoyed the slow dances as welcome breaks.

Following a refreshing intermission, juniors Irvin Hutcherson and Kathy Costley were crowned King and Queen of the prom.

Amidst congratulations the royal pair began their reign by leading off the dance following their coronation.

Nervously, Johnny Mizell pins a corsage on his date for the dance, Betsy Blevins.

Upperclassmen and their upperclasswomen go wild to the strains of "Louie, Louie" played by the "Igniters."

Maid of Honor Beth Griffin and May Queen Carolyn Evans prepare for big day!

Carolyn Evans Crowned Queen of May by Richmond's Mayor

Amid admiring glances and a chorus of oh's and ah's, the 1964-65 May Court filed into the school's north court. The twenty girls, representing all four classes, were dressed in long formals of varying, soft pastel shades. Carrying lovely bouquets of spring flowers, they walked gracefully to the far end of the court where they were seated.

When the procession was over, an excited Carolyn Evans ascended the throne and was crowned May Queen by Richmond's Mayor Morrill Crowe. Maid of Honor Beth Griffin was also presented and took her place beside the queen.

For the enjoyment of the queen and her court, the girls' gym classes presented a gymnastic show in the form of a circus. Difficult stunts were performed on the horse, the parallel bars, the trampoline, and the mats. The traditional maypole dance highlighted the program. Brightly dressed girls frolicking around the pole added an air of gaiety to the festivities.

Ruddigore Baronets Haunted School's Auditorium

Gilbert and Sullivan's Ruddigore was presented by the John Marshall choir and orchestra in two outstanding performances. A new production to most Marshallites, Ruddigore, under the capable direction of Mr. Charles Cooke and Mrs. Bonnie Newell, combined colorful scenery designed and constructed by members of the Art Department, with catchy music and hilarious dialogue to form an entertaining show.

Artie Roach portrayed the winsome and hysterical Robin Oakapple. Supporting roles were played by Mike Booth, John Dunville, Bill Nelson, and Mel Williams. Shirley Beaty sang the part of sweet Rose Maybud; assisting her were Pat Sesler, Trent Costley, Janet Faires, and Ginny Minasian.

Teaching the chorus of bridesmaids, Mike Booth does the hornpipe.

During rehearsal, Ginny Minasian listens intently as Shirley Beaty practices her lines.

Ginny Minasian tells frightened girls about the witch's curse on the baronets of Ruddigore.

"$1,001, $1,002, $1,003," says Carolyn Evans as Judy Sylvia totals money for JUMP, Inc.

Jump, Inc. Shares Sold by SCA to Spirited Students

Arnold Goldin, with the help of Johnny Mizell, moves the A.F.S. runner over another hurdle.

By selling shares in JUMP, Inc., the SCA raised money to bring an American Field Service student to Jayem and to send selected John Marshall students abroad. Once they had become shareholders, students could buy tickets for a raffle held after the Hi-Y—Key Club basketball game; proceeds from this game and an alumni basketball game were added to the fund.

A dance held in April honoring Regina Barreto raised additional money.

Norma Brown joins the "Jump" as she hands over her donation.

Spirit and Enthusiasm Set Happy Mood for Athletics

Ours is a book
Of spirit.
Not only school spirit,
The pep rallies on Friday mornings,
With hilarious skits,
A costumed band marching through the halls,
Yelling,
Screaming,
Cheerleaders with an everlasting supply of energy,
Or team spirit,
Eleven boys as one unit fighting for that goal line,
Five teammates streaking down a court,
A shortstop and second baseman trapping an opponent,
A Jayem grappler successfully pinning the opposition,
High hurdles,
A thrown discus.
But also that individual pep that gives
Every Marshallite
that "get-up-and-go" feeling,
On Monday mornings (?),
That added extra
That gives him courage to keep trying,
That surge of determination that inspires each athlete,
That feeling of pride as he receives a trophy,
That sense of relief at the sound of the ball swishing through the basket,
The thrill of the kickoff,
The joy of a grand slam,
The hope of a winning tennis serve,
To win,
Or maybe lose.
Yet determined,
Our characters unite,
Tied to gether in a vibrant mood
Of spirit.

Quarterback Wayne Linkous succumbs during a grueling first period fight against Highland Springs.

Jayem's Big Blue got off to a rousing start this season with an overwhelming victory over its Southside rival, George Wythe. Through the running and passing of quarterbacks, DeWayne Moritz and Wayne Linkous, the performance of half-back, Gene Hare, and through the efforts of the entire squad, the Justices were led through their best season in the past decade. The squad showed a great deal of enthusiasm throughout the season. Backed by a fine line and backfield, as well as an equally spirited student body, the team showed its worth.

The Justices carried the torch through many grim and subtle quarters but never let it extinguish. Its flames burned exuberantly all season, and it was later passed on to Coach Howard Hollingsworth after an end-of-season victory over Thomas Jefferson.

Although the Junior Varsity team did not experience as good a year, they showed a great deal of promise. Theirs is certain to be a more victorious squad in the coming seasons. This year the squad had many freshmen as well as sophomores who returned from last year. There is hope that the freshmen gained valuable experience and will return next year for a victorious season.

Although there were the best of games and there were the worst of games, an understanding coach was always present. Most of all, there was a great group of boys known as the John Marshall Justices. Whether they were twenty points ahead or twenty points behind, there was always an extra slap on the back from a fellow teammate or a warm word or wise saying from Coach Anderson. The team accepted victory with all its glory; and, even in instances when defeat was inevitable, they accepted it, upholding the traditions of sportsmanship always displayed by our fine teams.

Through many a grueling quarter, the expert ball-handling of such players as Pete Boggs, John Philbrick, and Mac Thompson helped to maintain the balance against some of the best teams in the Central District. Fast, continuous action was always in store for the masses whenever sure-footed DeWayne Moritz participated in the game. Sophomores George Cox and Barry Maher surprised no one when they combined with the expert rebounding of Earl Patterson to show a great performance on the court.

The loss of the Justices' ace shooter in the middle of the season with a dislocated shoulder seemed to handicap the Jayem boys in their remaining games. Because of a three-way tie for their Central District position, the Justices had to play an off-season tie-breaking game with Hopewell. The Justices showed great bursts of spirit and enthusiasm; and by their victory, they gained a berth in the Central District Tournament.

"Okay, now a little to the right and shoot," says Earl Patterson to teammate Pete Boggs.

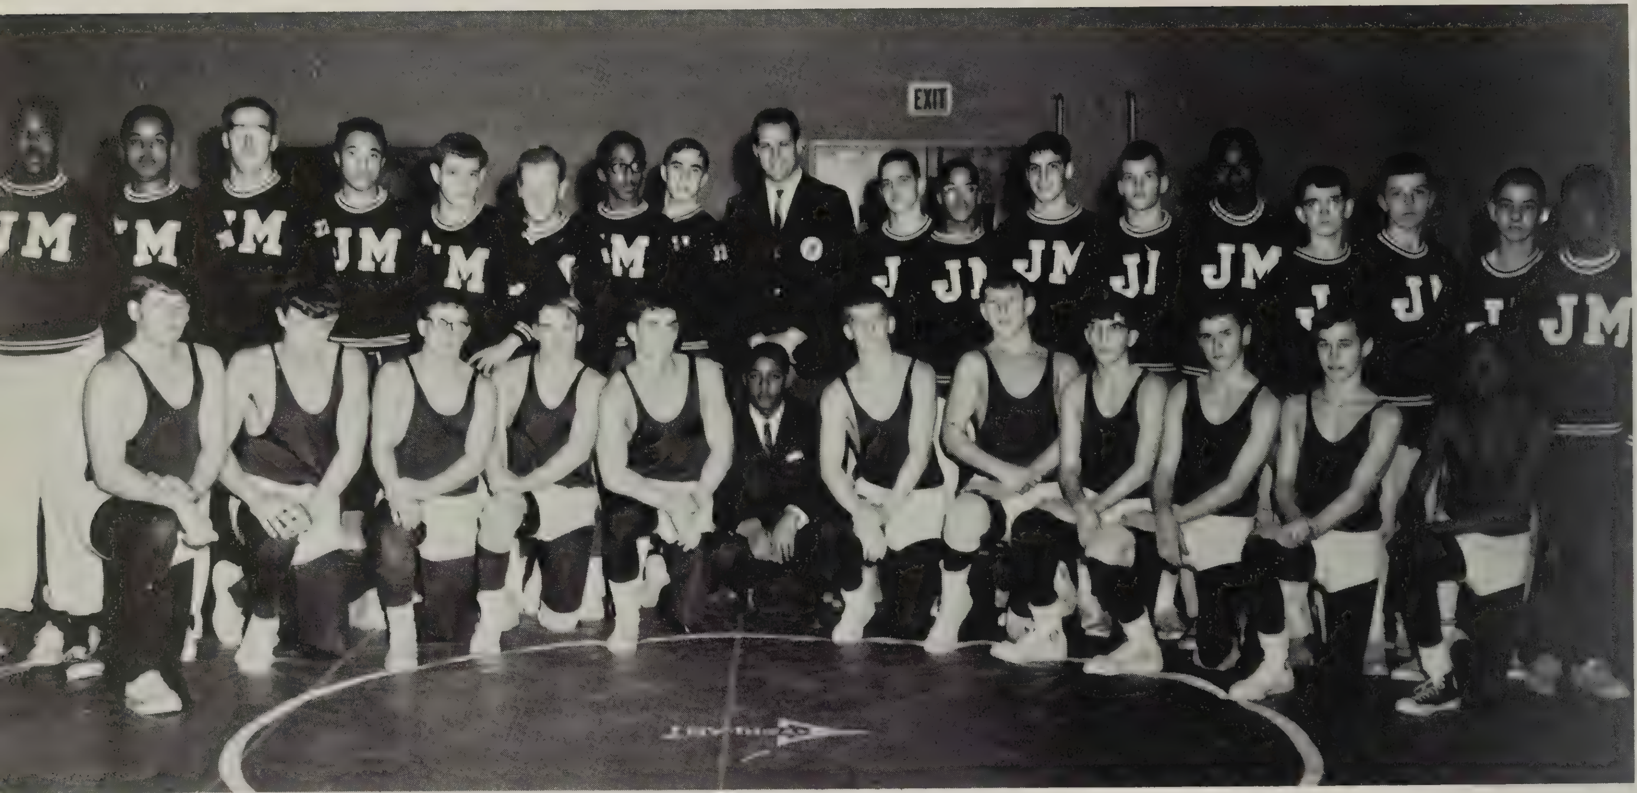
"Excuse me, but that's the way it's done in France," perspires John Philbrick.

DeWayne Moritz and Earl Patterson fight feverishly for the ball against Manchester players.

"My, what a grimace!" says John Carlton as he leaps for two points.

"You're tickling me!" exclaims Pete Boggs.

J.M. Wrestlers Participated in Regional Meet



Front row: Jerry Olinger, Butch Bristow, Billy Via, Russel Pyron, Larry Halterman, Manager Walter Harvey, Mike Garrette, Preston Webster, Thurman Yarbrough, Jim Cowardin, Robert Mead. Back row: James Monroe, Horace Ashe, Larry Talley, James Macklin, Sam Pedrone, Carlton Higgins, Oliver Hill, Joe Gregory, Coach Overcash, Russell Koss, Craig Robertson, Don Saladi, Dorian Travers, Charles Jordan, Stuart Garrett, Phillip Cunningham, John Baroody, Lemuel Whimbish.

John Marshall's wrestling team had a full season this year. Included in its schedule of opponents were Prince George, Saint Christophers, Douglas Freeman, Thomas Jefferson, and Colonial Heights. Six team members attended the regional meet.

"Put on a smile and cheer up," laughs Alan Barnes.

"We could have danced all night," says Russel Pyron.

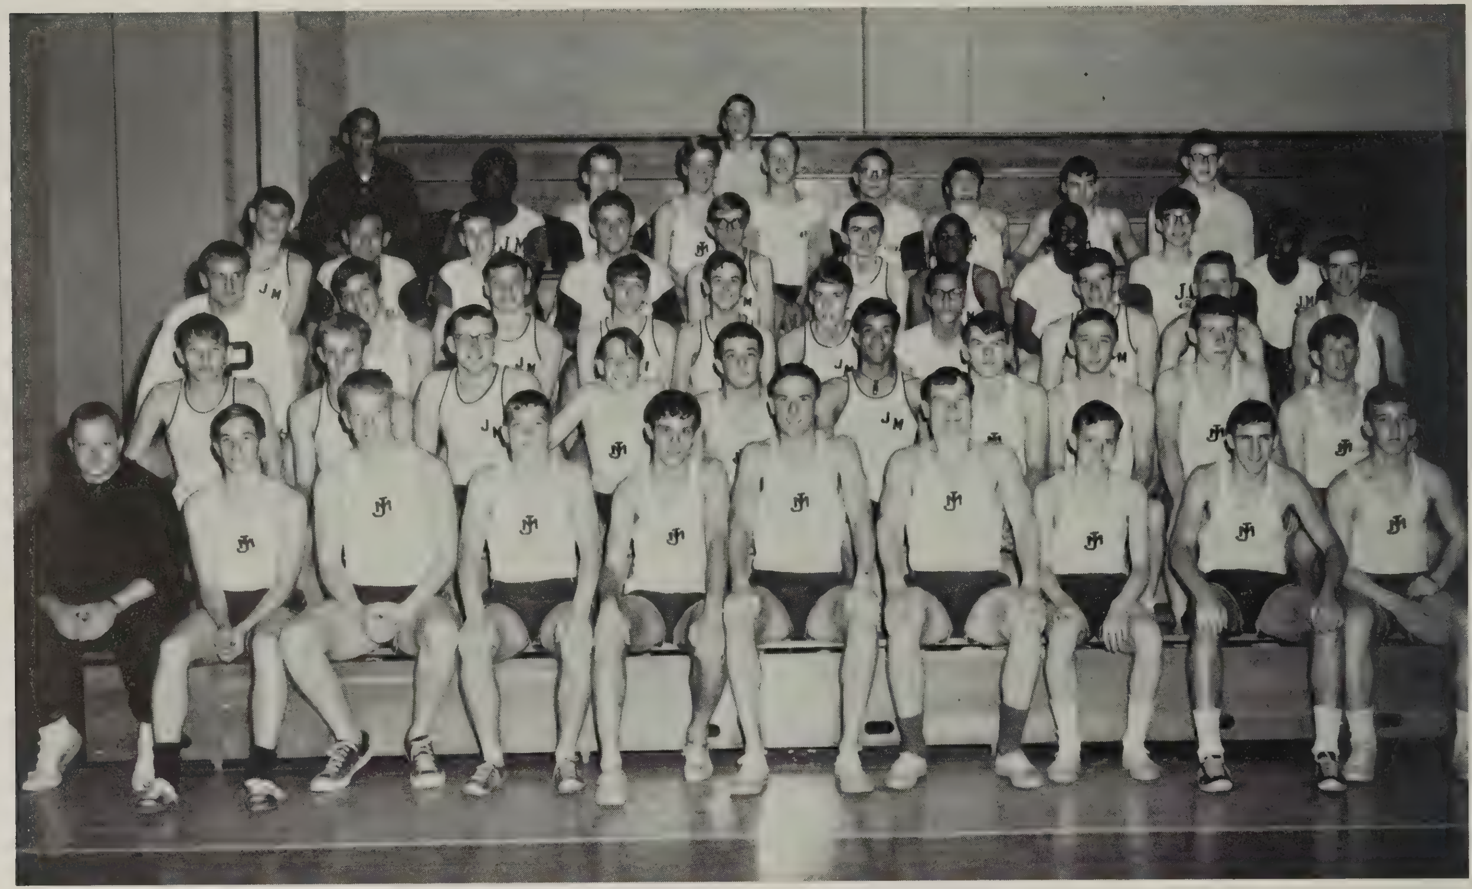
Spirit and Sportsmanship Exhibited by Baseball Team

With the return of many of last year's players, as well as the new boys who were chosen from the upcoming freshman and sophomore classes, Jayem's varsity baseball squad proved to be quite a good ball club. Under the expert handling of Coach Carter, the season promised much action because of the initiative and fortitude shown by the players.

Meade Farmer stretches for a throw from the catcher during a practice session.

Track Team Enjoyed County Scenery at Practices



Front row: Coach Stevenson, Tommy Clarke, Tom O'Keefe, Irvin Hutcherson, Joe Monaghan, Larry Whiting, Mike Mahoney, Jimmy Cox, Buddy Hancock, Mike Garrette. Second row: Bill Figg, Bob Pollard, Baron Boyd, Bill Johnson, Roger Nicholls, David Gresham, Jack Hueston, Tim Hunter, Tommy Howard, Don Tarbet. Third row: Henry Selden, Greg Reynolds, Johnny Bruner, Dwight Shamblee, Mike Francisco, Albert Brown, Jim Sharpe, Jim Walker, Bill Bridenback. Fourth row: Stafford Bolton, George King, Richard Johnson, Tyree Mudd, Richard Hobson, Bob Cunningham, Keith Jones, Eddie Anderson, Norman Teal, James Fultz. Back row: Robert Grey, Francis Johnson, Tim O'Kane, Russel Jennings, Tommy Stewart, Tom Odom, Curtis Chisholm, Mike Booth, Gene Hare, Mike Dowl.

Faster! Ten seconds flat! These familiar sounds were heard every afternoon during track season. The track team, made up of approximately forty-five freshmen, sophomores, juniors, and seniors, held practices and meets on the John Marshall athletic field. Coach Stevenson ably assisted the boys throughout their season.

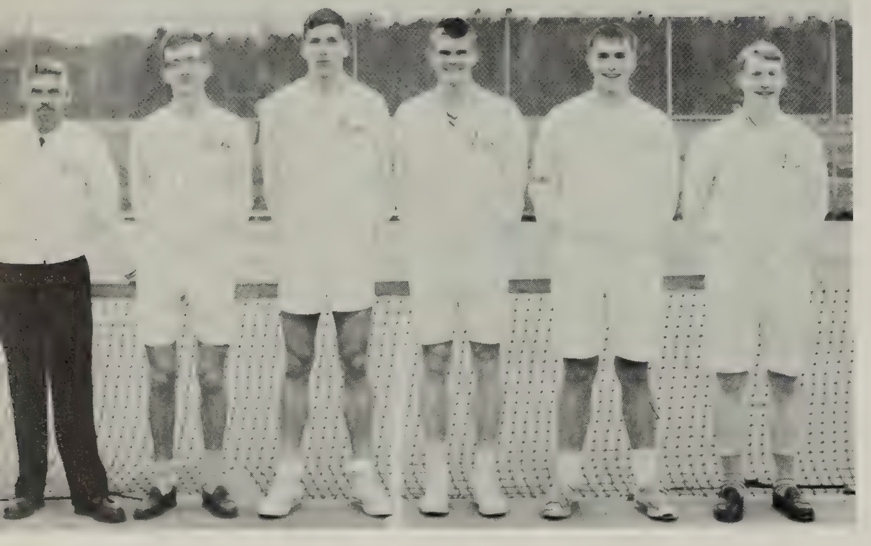
Gene Hare surpasses Irvin Hutcherson on the hurdles.

"One more time," pants Tim Hunter to Jim Cox.

Henry Selden springs up and over the pole.

Joe Monaghan powerfully pushes himself over the bar.

Mike Mahoney prepares for a quick getaway.

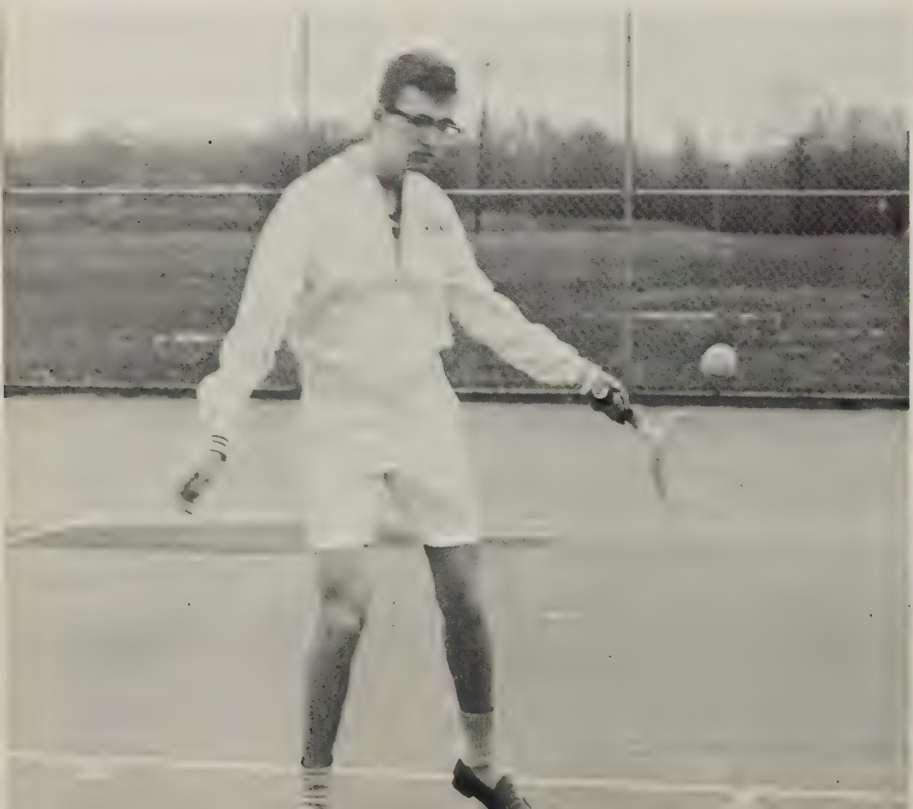


Coach Walter Fowler; Lettermen Dan Bartges, John Philbrick, Mac Thompson, Bill Tucker, William Brown.

Nucleus of Tennis Team Built Around Five Spirited Lettermen

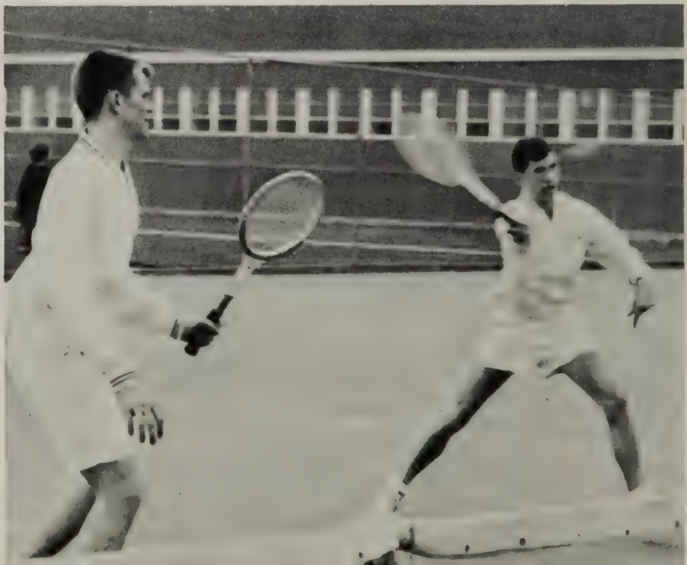
Certain to have another successful year, the boy's tennis team showed great promise in its before-season practices. Much credit should be given to Coach Walter Fowler for his effectiveness in handling the team. Returning from last year's group were lettermen Bill Tucker, Dan Bartges, Mac Thompson, John Philbrick, and William Brown. In addition, five other boys were selected to round out the team. Each player anticipated the joy of victory and the experience gained in playing a varsity sport.

Letterman Don Bartges intently watches the ball for a forehand smash.



With every ounce of strength, William Brown slams a serve into the opponent's court.

Playing doubles, Mac Thompson watches teammate John Philbrick put away a net shot.



Hockey Camp Gave Varsity Girls Extra Experience

Drill! Run! Think! Play! These orders echoed through the hockey camp at Mount Pocono, Pa., last summer where the varsity hockey team received a week of concentrated practice. When school began, the four letter-girls and seven graduates from last year's Jayvee squad perfected their skills during three sessions each week. Although the scoreboard showed one tie and six defeats, the fact that they were beaten in four games by only one point proved that good players were in abundance on the team. Named reserve goalie in the Tidewater Allied Tournament was sophomore Ann Cole.

Fields and Cracking Sticks Were Reminders of Hockey

Thrilling memories and great expectations for the seasons to come were the results of the Jayvee hockey season. Although Liz Burton, Patsy Finnegan, and Pat Parham saw some action last year and co-captains Liz Burton and Lynn Garber spent a week in hockey camp at Mount Pocono, Pa., the majority of the girls had had no previous experience.

As a result, the sophomore and freshman squad worked vigorously to obtain and perfect the skills necessary for a successful team. Their industry and determination was justified by the presentation of Jayvee awards to most of the players.

Surrounded by Hopewell players, Carol Reese grabs the ball and runs.

Carol Reese Led Jayem's

Sparked by the skillful and enthusiastic playing of senior Carol Reese, the Lady Justices gave their experienced opponents stubborn competition. The team, consisting primarily of juniors and sophomores, exhibited a lack of seasoning but left the fans with a promise of several outstanding players for future seasons.

As a result of several exhausting practice sessions each week, the girls ended their season on the upbeat with a breath-taking overtime victory over George Wythe.

Gayle Howard, a sophomore forward, remarked, "Coach McKenney's rugged drills finally brought us hard-earned success and real hope for next year."

Skill, Experience Reaped by J.V. Basketball Players

Continuing the practice begun last year, the junior varsity basketball team was divided into a sophomore and a freshman squad. Besides experienced players, girls with little or no knowledge of the game were able to perfect skills and plays in daily practice sessions after school. Amazing progress was shown by each player because of the personal help given by Coach McKenney and the concern of the varsity girls.

Aching Muscles, Days of Fun Were Results of Tennis

Many new members were added to the girls' tennis team to complement the returnees from last year. As practice began early in the spring, there was plenty of time for each girl to receive individual instruction from Coach Helen McKenney.

A series of tests in serving and placing the ball helped the girls to measure their improvement. Competition with other schools gave them valuable game experience and kept them on their toes.

And Originality Sparked Jayem Students and Teams

High-kicking through a French can-can in the Talent Show, giving the A.F.S. student a special birthday cheer, and wearing masks at the Halloween football game, the varsity cheerleaders displayed originality and vivid imagination throughout the year.

Junior varsity cheerleaders added zest to varsity games and enthusiastically backed their jayvee teams. The practice during the summer was justified on Orientation Day when their performance was the epitome of perfection. The precision and vibrant energy exhibited by the girls all year not only impressed the spectators but also inspired the teams.

SPECIAL REPORT TO YOUNG MEN OF TOMORROW

UNLIMITED OPPORTUNITY

awaits you in the pulp and paper industry

WHERE WILL you go after high school? To work? To trade school? To College? For the young man interested in college training, the pulp and paper industry has a continuing need for new technical personnel and offers unlimited opportunities for advancement in this exciting field.

THE SPECTACULAR growth of this industry makes possible top wages and security in a host of highly skilled technical positions. A four-year college education is preferred for such positions as pulp technologists, plant chemists, quality control specialists and production trainees.

SCHOLARSHIP help at North Carolina State College in Raleigh is available for college majors in pulp and paper technology, and highly remunerative employment within the industry is usually available during the summer vacation periods. Graduates of this program are qualified for quick advancement in production, technical and top management positions within the industry. Applications for pulp and paper scholarships for the academic year beginning next fall must be made by May 15.

IF YOU are a young man in high school who has above average grades in math, physics, chemistry and related subjects, we urge you to contact us or your Guidance Coordinator. We will gladly explain to you in detail about the opportunities awaiting you in this fascinating industry.

Now a student life policy a father can afford!

Insurance: $10,000
Premium: $30

College is costly enough without high insurance premiums . . . yet students should be insured. The Life Insurance Company of Virginia now offers a way to give students ten thousand dollar coverage, for only thirty dollars a year, with no medical examination. Both full-time college students up to age 27 and high-school seniors who will be in college within six months are eligible. And the insured may convert to permanent insurance at any time the Student Life Plan is in force, without evidence of insurability.

As our school year closes,
So must our book.
As we close,
We remember
Our final experiences—
Last assembly,
Final exams,
Parties on the last day,
Books collected,
Library fines paid,
Lockers cleaned,
Combinations changed,
Flags taken down and put away,
Coke party and signed yearbooks,
Report cards,
Senior party and picnic,
House parties,
Cadet graduation,
Anticipation of summer school,
Virginia Beach,
Florida,
Europe,
Caps and gowns,
Tears,
"Pomp and Circumstance,"
That long walk across the stage,
More tears,
Farewells,
Faces never to be seen again,
Lasting friendships.

And Thus, All Good Things Must Come to an End

Silent instruments,
Idle pencil sharpeners,
No more clicking notebooks,
No more scratching pencils,
Halls no longer echoing with the sounds
Of many feet
And many voices,
Most of all,
Deserted classrooms.
All is quiet.
Our book ends.
And they all lived happily ever after . . .
